LEGAL PRACTITIONERS ORDINANCE: COMMENTARY AND ANNOTATIONS

The Legal Practitioners Ordinance (Cap.159), in conjunction with the Professional Code of Conduct, is the standard that must be abided by the legal profession in Hong Kong. This publication is therefore an important resource for all legal practitioners, no matter if they are veterans of the legal profession or just first year trainees/pupils, as well as current law school students, as all must be alert and up-to-date to the changes in regards to the professional code of conduct and requirements of their chosen legal profession.

A REFERENCE TOO WITH UP-TO-DATE ANALYSIS AND INFORMATION:

- Annotations and commentaries are cross-referenced and supplemented by the table of cases, table of legislation, supplementary legislation, and other listed guidelines and codes;
- Relevant decisions and legal precedence, as well as references to the Hong Kong’s Guide to Professional Conduct for both Solicitors and Barristers;
- Recent developments examined include the landmark case of Winnie Lo v HKSAR, where the lawyer in the matter was convicted of champerty and maintenance; and
- Reforms and amendments to the Ordinance with references to the most recent codes, guidelines, and circulars.
ASIA MEDIATION HANDBOOK

“The Asia Mediation Handbook provides an insight into the state of modern mediation in a large number of Asian countries, both in terms of progress made and restraints yet to be overcome... This revealing book will help to drive mediation forward.”

Michael Leathes, Director, International Mediation Institute, The Hague

Asia Mediation Handbook is unique in its ambit in that it analyses the historical development, process of accreditation of mediators, legislative framework, Government and Judicial support and success rates of mediation in select areas across 15 major jurisdictions in Asia.

A MUST READ FOR ANY MEDIATOR, LAWYER, ACADEMIC, STUDENT OR BUSINESS PERSONNEL INVOLVED IN CROSS-BORDER DISPUTES.

KEY FEATURES:
• Comprehensive coverage of 15 major jurisdictions: Australia, China, Hong Kong, India, Indonesia, Japan, Korea, Malaysia, Nepal, New Zealand, Philippines, Singapore, Taiwan, Thailand and Vietnam;
• Expert coverage by 29 experienced mediators from 15 jurisdictions;
• Practical focus on how one gets accredited and the roles of the Government and Judiciary in supporting mediation and relevant legislation framework; and
• Detailed list of references for further research on each respective jurisdiction.

SECURITIES AND FUTURE ORDINANCE: COMMENTARY AND ANNOTATIONS

Securities and Future Ordinance: Commentary and Annotations covers Hong Kong securities law in the form of annotations and commentaries not only to the sections to the SFO, but the SFO Schedules, subsidiary legislation as well as related legal precedents. In addition, it looks at prospective reforms to the SFO, with pending provision amendments highlighted and opinions given on how these new aspects affect the industry.

A CONCISE REFERENCE GUIDE
• Section by section analysis of the complex rules and concepts contained in the Securities and Futures Ordinance (Cap.57);
• Reference materials and application the (new) Companies Ordinance (Cap.622) and that of the Securities and Futures (Amendment) Bill 2013;
• Analyzes the reforms and amendments to the Ordinance with references to the most recent codes, guidelines and circulars;
• A comprehensive and practical guide that provides a better understanding to all 409 sections as well as the Schedules of the Ordinance; and
• Most up-to-date reference guide for attorneys, in-house counsel, investors, intermediaries, compliance officers, issuers, media personnel, regulators etc. and those involved in regulating the securities and futures market.
